Inspiration:

FADE IN the Brutal Evolution LOGO. In the background we can hear the Brutal Evolution Theme soundtrack.

FADE OUT the Brutal Evolution LOGO.

FADE IN the background story. The background story is visualized using comic book frames. Text is highlighted long enough for a slow reader to read, then the highlight moves to the next comic frame.

FRAME 1

Shows Kyra and her husband Duncan arguing in a hospital corridor.

TEXT – A while ago, my daughter got sick. My husband is a scientist. He wanted to leave, because he thought he could save her. I wasn't so sure. I told him that if he left me, he wasn't leaving just me. He was leaving our daughter as well.

FRAME 2

Shows Kyra holding Tessie's hand at the hospital

Duncan left anyway. My daughter kept getting worse, and the doctors gave her a few monthts, maybe a year to live. That's when the transmission came

FRAME 3

Showing a transmission sheet, broken and encoded. In the screen Kyra's face is reflected, looking worried and concerned

Come quick, it said, I've found the cure for our daughter at Tera V. You must believe me. I was involved... More than that I could not read.

FRAME 4

Showing Kyra standing next to her sleeping daughter. Tears running down her face.

Of course I went. Duncan would never do anything to hurt me or Tessie. I know that. But I had to leave Tessie. She couldn't come with me where I was going.

FRAME 5

Shows Kyra talking to someone in uniform. Kyra is also in uniform.

The surprising part was, that I was called to duty the same night Duncan sent his message. Apparently, all contact with Tera V was lost. They wanted me to find out why.

FRAME 6

Shows Kyra sitting in some sort of a drop ship, sad and empy expression on her face.

I went there, knowing that Duncan had sent me a secret, highly encrypted and partially destroyed message. I had no idea what was waiting. And I still don't. Nobody talks.
